Manual simulations have probably been in use in some form since mankind first went to war. Chess can be regarded as a form of military simulation (although its precise origins are debated). In more recent times, the forerunner of modern simulations was the Prussian game Kriegsspiel, which appeared around 1811 and is sometimes credited with the Prussian victory in the Franco-Prussian War.

"At times it can be difficult to convey to a new customer the depth of experience and qualifications of our organization. Achieving the Robotics Industries Association certification demonstrates our expertise and allows our customers to make a more informed supplier selection decision based on the findings of an independent third party."
